North America's Building Trades Unions' CONSTRUCTION REGISTERED APPRENTICESHIP During these difficult times, NABTU is proud to support the America's Building Trades Unions' world-class registered apprenticeship programs train workers to become highly-skilled, six-figure earning construction workers through a debt-free, technologically-advanced education. These earn-as-you-learn programs pay family-sustaining wages and provide health care coverage and retirement benefits from day one. Our construction registered apprenticeship supplies our country with the best American workers to build the roads, bridges, schools, and water and energy systems that keep America safe and competitive. In every state and almost every Congressional district, registered apprenticeship programs provide years of the best construction training in the business, equipping local workers with top-notch trade skills for fulfilling lifelong middle class careers in the building trades. HOW MUCH MONEY COULD YOUR APPRENTICESHIP EARN? average wage for a fully-proficient worker who has completed an apprenticeship participants. With a high graduation rate, apprentices earn competitive wages, a paycheck from day one, and incremental raises as skill levels increase. View our declaration of performance. Every time a construction worker steps on a jobsite, they use math skills. Construction is really applied math. All buildings, roads, tunnels, bridges and other structures are the result of mathematical principles applied to architecture and construction. Ever since humans first started to live and work in human-created "buildings," the people who designed and built these structures have used mathematical principles to make sure these structures looked nice, functioned properly and achieved their desired purpose. Even in our modern, technological society, construction workers still measure, add, subtract, divide, multiply, and work with fractions every day - although today they may use a calculator or iPad. Workers in all Trades measure length, width, depth, area and volume. How much concrete will they need to paint the school? Every aspect of construction requires a good working knowledge of math and measurement. Construction math skills. This is the purpose behind Construction Math Lab. On this webpage, NABTU provides you with self-paced, no-cost resources to help you improve your construction math skills. The exercises, videos and math problems located here are designed to challenge you and expand your working knowledge of construction math, so you can successfully enroll in a NABTU Apprenticeship Readiness Program or directly in a Building Trades Registered Apprenticeship Program. Both are pathways to great careers in the union construction industry. Completion of Construction Math Lab lessons does not guarantee that you will pass a particular Building Trades Training Center's aptitude test or guarantee admission into an Apprenticeship Readiness Program or Building Trades Registered Apprenticeship Program. The lessons are simply a tool to help you improve your construction math skills. PipeTradesPrep Math Competency Ruler Tape Measure Math Quick Lesson
